CAMPAIGN PLANS OF BRYAN AND MANAGERS

They Will Make a Strenuous Effort to Carry New York State

Outline of the Candidate's Speaking Tour—Carriage Talk Yesterday and a Demand for a $2,000,000 Campaign Fund Contribution by the People.

Chicago, Aug. 22.—William J. Bryan will make a determined effort to place New York state in the democratic column. Plans to this end were carefully laid today at a three hours' conference of Bryan, the national chairman and the heads of the various bureaus of the national committee, and members of the executive committee, at democratic headquarters shortly after Bryan's arrival here from Des Moines. Bryan will speak in New York City, Syracuse and Rochester between September 16 and 20 and early in October he will again speak in New York and Buffalo. Reports received by Mack gave strong hope to Bryan and members of the national committee that the democrats could carry New York if Bryan would speak in the principal centers of the state. It was further developed that Bryan will make a fight in the middle west, while Kern will likely be called upon to make an extended tour of the Pacific coast.

After the conference had been called shortly before noon, Mack directed the heads of various committee bureaus to submit reports of the plans and progress made in the bureau. The national committee present told of the situation in the states and generally agreed the outlook for the democratic national ticket was most promising. Taggart declared that Indiana would surely go for Bryan and that the republicans were using money to divide the labor vote. Governor

Haskell of Oklahoma, treasurer of the committee declared that Oklahoma would go for Bryan by 50,000 plurality. That state will contribute $50,000 to the campaign funds, of which $27,000 has already been raised.

The political conditions in the middle west were taken up by Chairman Culbertson of the advisory committee, who has been spending the summer in Maryland. He informed Bryan that the committee men say West Virginia and Maryland will in all probability be found in the democratic ranks. In the opinion of those taking an active part in the committee's deliberations the most effective campaign for Bryan will be to make speeches in all the middle west states, speaking only in the principal centers, then carry the fight through West Virginia, Maryland, Delaware, New Jersey and New York state. Much of the time it is suggested, Bryan would spend on the trips in conference with national committee men and state leaders, and in this way give valuable aid direction in the various state campaigns. It was decided to call a meeting of the full committee with various sub-committees on September 3 in this city.

Standing in a carriage in the middle of Congress street, between the auditorium and annex hotels, before a crowd that completely choked the thoroughfare, for nearly a half hour tonight, Bryan outlined the uses to which the democratic clubs can be put in the present campaign. He was repeatedly interrupted by applause and shouts of "good, good."

Bryan made a further plea for popular subscriptions and estimated that the democratic national ticket this year will muster eight million votes. If each of these voters subscribe 25 cents, he said, an ample campaign fund will be secured.

TAFT AND TARIFF HUGHES' CANDIDACY

Two Questions on Which There Was an Expression at Hot Springs Yesterday.

Hot Springs, Aug. 22.—Just what Mr. Taft's views are regarding the revision of the tariff were incidentally expressed by him today. "If elected," he said, "I shall call the sixty-first congress together in extraordinary session to revise the tariff at the very earliest moment I have the authority to do so. I consider such an action an obligation under the tariff plank of the republican platform."

Postmaster General Myer, who came here yesterday for a week-end visit with Taft allowed himself to be quoted in this statement: "I believe Governor Hughes will be re-nominated."

Myer, who was recently at Oyster Bay conference on the New York situation, indicated that he based his opinion on information gathered there, although he said Roosevelt's intention was to take no action in the matter. "It is a political situation which I believe will work itself out naturally," he said.

CONGRESSIONAL OUTLOOK.

New York, Aug. 22.—Congressman McKinley of Illinois, who has taken the place of Congressman Sherman, as chairman of the republican congressional committee, arrived today to take up his duties.

Mr. McKinley said the situation in the west is most satisfactory. The committee, he said, expects to gain two seats in Indiana, one in Iowa, one in Minnesota, of the middle western states. In Illinois the committee anticipated a gain of one seat.

AUTO ACCIDENT.

Buffalo, Aug. 22.—One man was killed and two injured, one probably fatally, tonight, when speeding an automobile that dashed over an embankment in Delaware park into an abandoned stone quarry. James Wayland, the chauffeur, was killed; James Wakefield was probably fatally injured. James Morrison was seriously hurt.

FLAGS ARE AT HALF STAFF

Death Calls Former Governor N. O. Murphy

The End of the Career of One of Arizona's Most Distinguished Citizens.

Former Governor Nathan Oakes Murphy, died yesterday at Coronado, California, after a continued illness of about two years, the immediate cause of death being hemorrhage of the stomach. The news came to Phoenix yesterday afternoon in a telegram and became at once a topic of public comment and the occasion of universal regret. Though it was known that he was in poor health, a condition in which little hope of improvement might be cherished, no particularly alarming symptoms nor hint of his early demise had been reported here. The news of his death was therefore quite sudden and unexpected even to his most intimate friends. Mrs. Murphy was at his bedside when the end came both having but recently gone to Coronado from Colorado where they spent the greater part of the summer. For almost the span of a generation N. O. Murphy was prominent in the affairs of Arizona, both in connection with industrial enterprises and in public life. He was universally popular even with those whose political opposition to him was pronounced and unchangeable. He was always recognized as a man of warm friendships, faithfulness to those in whom he trusted and the fairest of opponents in all controversies, a good fighter and a magnanimous foe. In his passing there will be sincere and general mourning. In respect to his memory the flags on the public buildings were yesterday placed at half staff. At this time no information has been received concerning funeral arrangements or the place of interment.

To write the record of N. O. Murphy in its fulness would require a recital of the history of Arizona for the past quarter of a century, for little of enduring importance has occurred either politically or industrially in which he has not in some manner been either directly or indirectly interested, or influential by his approval and encouragement. In biographical outline however the following gives an intimation of the activity of his life work:

N. O. Murphy was born in Lincoln county, Maine in 1819 and moving to Wisconsin spent his young manhood as a teacher in the public schools. He came to Arizona in 1882 to engage in mining with his brother, Frank M. Murphy, now president of the Santa Fe, Prescott and Phoenix railroad company. His first connection with the official life of the territory dates from 1889 when he was appointed territorial secretary of Arizona. Two years later, in May 1892, he became governor, although for more than a year he had already performed the functions of executive in all but name. In June 1892 he was a delegate from Arizona to the national republican convention held in Minneapolis, where he secured, for the first time in a national platform, a statement as to the necessities of the arid region. Although Arizona was at the time democratic, in 1894 he was elected territorial delegate to congress, where he did all within his power to bring before the consideration of that body the needs of the territory as well as the opportunities it offered for advantageous cultivation.

It is a noteworthy fact that Governor Murphy is the only territorial governor who has been twice appointed to the office of executive. His second term dates from July 16, 1898, at which time President McKinley appointed him to succeed the late Myron H. McCord who resigned to accept the rank of colonel of the First Territorial Volunteer Infantry in the Spanish-American war. During his service as governor he emphasized his fitness for his high office. Possessing the force of his convictions he always championed movements for the benefit of the territory. In his messages to the legislature he urged the proper assessment of mines, railroads and personal property, the reorganization of the National Guard of Arizona, the establishment of an entirely new prison and the enactment of primary election laws. What ever made for the progress of the territory received his support and both public official and private citizen he labored indefatigably for the progress of Arizona and the development of its resources. Since retiring from office he devoted himself to mining until forced by ill health to give up business interests.

Besides his widow and his brother Frank M. Murphy of Prescott who is at this time in New York, Governor Murphy is survived by one other member of his immediate family in Arizona, a son, Paul Tittle Murphy who lives in Tombstone.

THE SOLDIER OUTRAGE.

It Proves to Have Been an Inexcusable Slander.

Cheyenne, Aug. 22.—The officers at Camp Crawford, the United States maneuver grounds, over the long distance telephone today emphatically declared that there was no truth in the report that a young Denver woman had been maltreated at that camp last Sunday night by thirty-two artillerymen and left in the underwear unconscious, more dead than alive. The story was based on the statements made at Laramie by privates who said twenty-six of the thirty-two men alleged to be implicated had been locked up in the guard house.

TOO MUCH WIND.

Lemans, France, Aug. 22.—The wind blowing at the rate of thirty-five miles per hour made it impossible for Wilbur Wright, the American aeronaut, to continue his flight here today with the aeroplane.

Fifty Years Ago

Fifty years ago but a very few millions of dollars were invested in railroads. Today they span every state and territory and require the services of scores of thousands of bookkeepers and stenographers.

Fifty years ago the mail between some of our largest cities could be carried in an ordinary stage coach, while today it requires train after train, carrying nothing but mail, to perform the same service and thousands of stenographers are employed to conduct this great and rapidly growing correspondence.

Fifty years ago not a typewriter was manufactured, sewing machines were in their infancy, modern farming implements were almost a dream, bicycles and automobiles were unheard of and thousands of our other modern conveniences were then only in the minds of their inventors.

Fifty years ago in order to secure a responsible position with any old established business concern, the young man must either possess influential friends, family relations or cash. Today, a thorough, practical, complete business education combined with character and energy, will open the doors of the best positions in the United States. This can be vouched for by the thousands of poor boys who have risen by this means from poverty and obscurity to wealth and influence.

All of this progress has called for more bookkeepers and stenographers and 500,000 bookkeepers performing this same work and it is estimated that over 50,000 more thoroughly trained ones could be placed at once.

No matter what business or profession the young person of today expects to enter he must have a thorough business training in order to keep up with the progress of the age.

A great many are now making arrangements to secure this training by entering The Lamson Business College at the opening of the Fall Term, September 14th.

CAMERON CALLED TO LEAD REPUBLICAN HOST

The Highland Chief Nominated Amid the Wildest Enthusiasm

Yesterday's Territorial Convention the Most Harmonious Gathering of Politicians That Ever Assembled in Arizona—Atkinson Named for Joint Councilman.

The republican convention held yesterday in the Olympic theater, nominated Ralph H. Cameron of Coconino county for delegate to congress; George W. Atkinson of Tucson, for the office of joint councilman representing Pima and Santa Cruz counties; adopted a platform heartily endorsing the national and territorial republican administrations; listened to a score of masterly addresses which developed indescribable enthusiasm; started rolling a wave of public sentiment that came almost unbidden, clouds the roseate sky that has lighted the pathway of Mark Smith for so these many years, and it is believed will break the backbone of democracy in the territory; properly fitting Arizona to take her place in the sisterhood of states attired in a sparkling republican gown.

As announced in these columns yesterday morning there was no slate and forecasting was impossible. There were groups of delegates with this or that matter lying nearest to their hearts, but not enough of them had arrived in the city for the perfection of plans to be perfunctorily carried out. Yesterday morning however, they arrived in large numbers and the caucus and conference were the occupations of the early hours. One hundred and seventy-seven delegates were present, the strength of the convention and nearly all of them were present in person and the rest by proxy. The early caucuses were chiefly on temporary organization and when the convention met at 10 o'clock there was an entirely harmonious understanding of what was to be done.

The convention hall had been fittingly decorated and was well filled when H. B. Tenney of Tucson, chairman of the territorial central committee, stepped forward for order, and the secretary, George Mauck, read the call. The galleries were filled with people. Chief among them was a large audience of ladies, who reappeared again for the afternoon session and who during the day were paid timely tributes for their interest. Next in importance was a large number of democrats of county and territorial fame whose interest was that of anxiety as well as curiosity. The rest of the chairs and benches were occupied by enthusiastic republicans representing the bulk of the territory and by the Pioneer band which discoursed its best music at appropriate places during both sessions.

On the platform with the gentlemen named were also Governor J. H. Kibbey and Hon. W. S. Sturges, Arizona's representative on the national central committee.

After the reading of the call, J. L. Hubbard, who had been prominently mentioned the night before for the honor of temporary chairman, presented the name of E. S. Clark, who was chosen unanimously and who in accepting the honor, appropriately thanked the convention. Attorney George E. Trailles of Tucson, a comparatively new resident of the territory was named for temporary secretary and seated without opposition. Ed. H. Meeks of Prescott was made assistant secretary. Little time was lost in the naming of the usual committees.
